Woodsford Litigation Funding

Lexology Getting The Deal Through is delighted to publish the fourth edition of Litigation Funding, which is available in print and online at www.lexology.com/gtdt.

Lexology Getting The Deal Through provides international expert analysis in key areas of law, practice and regulation for corporate counsel, cross-border legal practitioners, and company directors and officers.

Throughout this edition, and following the unique Lexology Getting The Deal Through format, the same key questions are answered by leading practitioners in each of the jurisdictions featured. Our coverage this year includes new chapters on Italy and the United States of America.

Lexology Getting The Deal Through titles are published annually in print. Please ensure you are referring to the latest edition or to the online version at www.lexology.com/gtdt.

Every effort has been made to cover all matters of concern to readers. However, specific legal advice should always be sought from experienced local advisers.

Lexology Getting The Deal Through gratefully acknowledges the efforts of all the contributors to this volume, who were chosen for their recognised expertise. We also extend special thanks to the contributing editors, Steven Friel and Jonathan Barnes of Woodsford Litigation Funding, for their continued assistance with this volume.

United States – other key jurisdictions

Zachary D Krug, Robin M Davis and Alex Lempiner
Woodsford Litigation Funding

The United States is a federal system, with overlapping federal and state jurisdictions, including 96 federal judicial districts and 50 individual US states. As such, attorneys and parties contemplating commercial litigation finance transactions here must pay particular attention to the many potential jurisdictions that may be implicated by a single particular transaction – including the governing law of the litigation finance agreement, the location of the parties, the venue of the particular litigation, and the jurisdiction in which a judgment may eventually need to be enforced. Further, because litigation finance remains relatively new, and the law is still in development, those considering a litigation funding transaction in one jurisdiction would be well advised to consider the applicability of precedents from other jurisdictions.

This brief addendum is not intended to be a comprehensive guide to litigation finance in the US outside of New York. Rather, it endeavours to highlight some of the notable rules and precedents in a few important jurisdictions beyond New York, which have developed recently as litigation finance has become more common in the US. The focus is largely on permissibility of commercial litigation finance generally, and any rules regarding disclosure of funding and the scope of protection afforded communication with funders; consumer litigation finance transactions may implicate other regulations that are beyond the scope of this addendum.

US Federal

Because litigation funding related issues typically involve state law matters (eg, state bar rules, contract law, status of champerty provisions, etc) or procedural matters governed by local practice, some of which are discussed below in the state summaries, there is little purely federal law on funding. However, the US Congress reintroduced the Litigation Funding Transparency Act of 2019, which, if enacted, would require disclosure of funding (and a copy of the funding agreement) in any federal class action or federal multi-district litigation (MDL) proceeding. The proposed law was put forward without success in 2018, and reintroduced in early 2019. It is in consideration with the Senate Judiciary Committee, so it remains to be seen whether the law will eventually be amended or enacted.

California

In California, litigation finance is generally permitted by state law. Indeed, unlike many eastern states, the doctrines of champerty and maintenance were never adopted into the state's laws. (See In re Cohen's Estate, 152 P.2d 485 (Cal. Dist. Ct. App. 1944); Abbot Ford, Inc v Superior Court, 43 Cal. 3d 858, 885 n.26 (Cal. 1987) ('California . . . has never adopted the common law doctrines of champerty and maintenance.').)

Practicing attorneys in California, as in all states, are guided by rules of professional conduct and, importantly, such rules do not prohibit litigation finance transactions. (See LA County Bar Association Ethics Committee Formal Opinion No. 500 (1999), discussing the permissibility of funding arrangement under California law and legal ethics regime.) Importantly, the California State Bar established a Task Force on Access Through Innovation of Legal Services, which recently published several alternate proposed revisions to the ethical rules that would, if adopted, either allow limited non-attorney ownership in law practices or largely do away with the traditional restrictions on fee-sharing. The proposed amendments remain subject to public comment and approval by the California Supreme Court. While it is still too early to predict whether either amendment will be adopted, it nevertheless suggests the state bar authorities recognise the important role litigation funding can play in promoting access to justice.

Regarding disclosure, there is no rule requiring disclosure of a party's funded status. However, for class action litigation in the federal courts, the Northern District of California recently revised its Standing Orders to require the disclosure of 'any person or entity that is funding the prosecution' of 'any proposed class, collective, or representative action.' N.D. Cal. Standing Order No. 19 (Jan. 17, 2017). Accordingly, for class or collective matters in the Northern District, a party's funded status should be disclosed at the initial stages pursuant to Rule 3–15, or, if arising later, in connection with a party's Case Management Statement. For all other matters, there is no general obligation of affirmative disclosure under the local rules. (See, MLC Intellectual Prop, LLC v Micron Tech, Inc, No. 14–CV-03657, 2019 WL 118595, at *2 (N.D. Cal. Jan. 7, 2019), rejecting the argument that a funded plaintiff had failed to comply with local rules by failing to identify the litigation funder.)

Importantly, communications with a litigation funder have been shielded from disclosure and, where subject to a properly executed non-disclosure agreement, should not result in a waiver. This is consistent with the general trend in most US jurisdictions. (See Odyssey Wireless, Inc v Samsung Electronics Co., 2016 WL 7665898, at *5–*6 (S.D. Cal. Sept. 20, 2016); see also Space Data Corporation v Google LLC No. 16–CV–03260, 2018 WL 3054797, at *1 (N.D. Cal. June 11, 2018) (communications with potential funders are not relevant).)

Delaware

Litigation finance is generally permitted in Delaware. However, the doctrines of champerty and maintenance remain applicable. See Charge Injection Technologies, Inc v EI DuPont de Nemours and Co., 2016 WL 937400, at *3 (Del. Super. Ct. Mar. 9, 2016). As such, outright assignments of claims may be regarded as champertous and any funding transaction should be clear that the funding entity does not control the litigation. (See id at *4–*5.)

Regarding disclosure, there is no general rule requiring disclosure of a party's funded status. Moreover, one Delaware federal court has concluded that, in at least some contexts, litigation funding agreements are not relevant and potentially confusing and prejudicial. (See AVM Technologies LLC v Intel Corporation, 2017 WL 1787562, at *3 (D. Del. May 1, 2017).)

With regard to privilege, both state and federal courts in Delaware have held communications with litigation funders are protected from discovery. As Delaware's Court of Chancery has remarked, there is '[n]o persuasive reason . . . why litigants should lose work product protection simply because they lack the financial means to press their claims on their own'. (See Carlyle Investment Management v Moonmouth Co., 2015 WL 778846, at *9 (Del. Ch. Feb. 24, 2015); see also Walker Digital, LLC v Google, Inc , 2013 WL 9600775, at *1 (D. Del. Feb. 12, 2013) (claimant and funder share a common legal interest and communications are protected as both attorney client privilege and work product); but see Leader Technologies Inc v Facebook Inc , 719 F. Supp. 2d 373, 377 (D. Del. 2010) (no common interest inapplicable); Acceleration Bay v Activision Blizzard, 2018 WL 798731 (D. Del. 2018) (ordering disclosure where in the absence of signed non-disclosure agreement and using a 'but for' standard for work product).)

Texas

In general, Texas common law never incorporated the doctrine of champerty. See Bentinck v Franklin, 38 Tex. 458, 468 (1873). Texas courts have reviewed commercial litigation funding agreements and found them not to be champertous or otherwise a violation of public policy. See Anglo-Dutch Petroleum International v Haskell, 193 S.W.3d 87, 105 (Tex. App. 2006). However, the funding of certain categories of claims – for example malpractice actions – may present public policy issues. See id. Further, lawyers or law firms contemplating litigation funding transactions should be sure to ensure that the contemplated structure does not misalign incentives or undermine the primary duty to their clients. (See Texas Bar Opinion No. 576 (concluding that proposed arrangement was 'tantamount to fee splitting').)

Regarding privilege, several federal courts in Texas have concluded that litigation funding information should be protected as work product and a non-disclosure agreement obviates waiver. (See US v Ocwen Loan Servicing, 2016 WL 1031157, at *6 (E.D. Tex. Mar. 15, 2016); Mondis Technology Ltd v LG Electronics, Inc, 2011 WL 1714304, at *3 (E.D. Tex. May 4, 2011).)

Further, while there is no rule requiring disclosure of a party's funded status, one court has ordered the disclosure of the identity of a litigation funder, while simultaneously holding that communications with that funder remained confidential. (See US v Homeward Residential Inc, 2016 WL 1031154, at *5 (E.D. Tex. March 15, 2016).)

New Jersey

New Jersey courts have long rejected common law prohibitions on champerty and maintenance. See Schomp v Schenck, 40 N.J.L. 195, 206 (Sup. Ct. 1878). More recently, New Jersey's state bar has offered guidance permitting plaintiff factoring of a contingent interest in a potential judgment. See New Jersey Advisory Committee on Professional Ethics, Opinion 691 (2001).

At the federal level, at least one New Jersey district court recently concluded that discovery into litigation funding was not relevant and that communications would likely be protected as work product. (See In re Valsartan N-Nitrosodimethylamine (NDMA) Contamination Products Liability Litigation., No. CV 19–2875, 2019 WL 4485702, at *7 (D.N.J. Sept. 18, 2019) (collecting cases from a number of jurisdictions).)

Illinois

Litigation finance is permitted in Illinois. While the common law prohibition of champerty has been abolished, there remains a statutory prohibition. See 720 Illinois Criminal Code 5/32–12. However, as set forth in a well-reasoned and comprehensive discussion in Miller UK v Caterpillar, 17 F. Supp. 3d 711 (N.D. Ill. 2014), an ordinary commercial litigation finance transaction would not be problematic.

Regarding privilege, several federal courts have concluded that communications with a litigation funder pursuant to a non-disclosure agreement remain protected from disclosure. (See Viamedia, Inc v Comcast Corporation, 2017 WL 2834535, at *3 (N.D. Ill. June 30, 2017); Miller UK Ltd v Caterpillar, Inc, 17 F. Supp. 3d 711, 739 (N.D. Ill. 2014).)

Wisconsin

Litigation finance is permitted in Wisconsin. However, in early 2018, Wisconsin passed Wisconsin Act 235, which, among other things, requires disclosure of all funding agreements in civil litigation. Specifically, the Act mandates that:

> [A] party shall, without awaiting a discovery request, provide to the other parties any agreement under which any person, other than an attorney permitted to charge a contingent fee representing a party, has a right to receive compensation that is contingent on and sourced from any proceeds of the civil action, by settlement, judgment, or otherwise.

Ohio

In Ohio, litigation finance is permitted and it is regulated by statute. See Ohio Rev. Code section 1349.55 (2008). The statue requires specific wording and disclaimers to be made in order for the finance agreements to be valid. The statute was promulgated in response to an Ohio Supreme Court decision which had previously invalidated a funding agreement on champerty grounds. (See Rancman v Interim Settlement Funding Corporation, 789 N.E.2d 217 (Ohio 2003).)

In a decision that is likely more relevant to federal practice – and in particular – multi-district litigation than Ohio specifically, a recent district court ordered any funding be disclosed to the court in camera but made clear that any such disclosures should not be subject of ancillary litigation or discovery. (See In re National Prescription Opiate Litigation, 17–MD–2804, Dkt. No. 383 (7 May, 2018).)

Pennsylvania

In Pennsylvania, Clark v Cambria County Board of Assessment Appeals, 747 A.2d 1242, 1245 (Pa Cmwlth. 2000) saw champerty defined as a:

> [A] bargain by a stranger with a party to a suit, by which such third person undertakes to carry on the litigation at his own cost and risk, in consideration of receiving, if successful, a part of the proceeds or subject to be recovered.

Under certain circumstances, litigation finance may not be permitted in Pennsylvania. For example in WFIC, LLC v LaBarre, 148 A.3d 812, 820 (Pa. Super. 2016), the court found that a funding agreement governed by Pennsylvania law was invalid because it met the requisite elements of champerty. (See Riffin v Consolidated Rail Corp., 363 F. Supp. 3d 569, 576 (E.D. Pa. 2019) (assignment of claims is invalid as champertous).)

Nevertheless, regarding disclosure, federal courts in Pennsylvania have concluded, consistent with other districts, that communications with a litigation funder are protected as work product. (See Lambeth Magnetic Structures, LLC v Seagate Technology (US) Holding, Inc, 16–CV–0538, 2018 WL 466045, at *5 (W.D. Pa. Jan. 18, 2018).)
